

A: As I understand your question, you want to replace all the occurrences of that specific string within a text file with the contents of the variable called version. If that is the case, and you are certain that the text file contains only the exact string version within it, and you also have some way to make the string version a constant that is not within the text file, then you can do something like this: file=file_name.txt lines=open(file).read().splitlines() #opens the file as a list of lines search="version" #the keyword search for with open(file) as f: #turn the file into a context for line in f: #for each line in the file for i,v in enumerate(line.split()): #for each word in each line line=line.replace(v,version) #replace all occurrences with the version constant lines[i]=line #insert the updated line back into the text file

The code essentially splits the file into individual lines, and then for each line, it creates a loop that looks for the version search string in that line. The variable version is simply what you declared earlier, and you just replace each occurrence with the version string in the with statement. The enumerate function allows you to loop through a list of items with a counter variable so you can find a specific element based on the counter value. Here is an example of that in action:
>>> ['aaa', 'bbb', 'ccc'] >>> iter(['aaa', 'bbb', 'ccc'], lambda x: next(iter(x))[1:]) at 0x7ffbd0c2b420> >>> next(iter(['aaa', 'bbb', 'ccc'], lambda x: next(iter(x))[1:]))[0]

Question: What is the difference between a for loop and a while loop? Answer: The table below shows that a for loop is used to repetitively execute the same set of actions in a loop, while a while loop is used to execute actions until a certain condition is met. The table below shows the key differences between for and while loops. Specifies the process or tasks that should be repeated and the execution conditions. Source: A: As we know that while loop will stop loop execution after a condition is met, where as for loop is completely different and i am sure that you dont know what is for loop. You have to understand the whole difference between for loop and while loop. package ini // skipper is used to skip certain blocks of an ini file. // Currently skipper is used to skip nested blocks of ini // files. See example below // // [[,,,]=[] // # n = 3 // [[,,,]] // # n = 6 // [[[,,[a,b,c],[,,,d,e,f],[,,,g,h,i,j,k,l]]] // //
